FIFTY-THIRD YEAR

FRIDAY, JANUARY 9, 1903. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

Kearns Don't Want Smoot.

Junior Senator From Utah Engages in An Extraordinary Campaign Against Provo Man-Says President Roosevelt is Also Against Him-Statement Creates a Sensation and is Doubled by Many.

Thomas Kearns, the junior United States Senator from Utah, has apparently arrayed himself in strongest fashion against the election of Hon. Reed ently array.

Smoot to the same body of which he is a member. That much was made plain ast night when he sent a message to the Utah Legislature, which will assemhe in this city on Monday next, advising the members that the election of Mr. Smoot would be a grievous mistake, and further that President Roosevelt had charged him to send it, a statment the friends of the President could carcely credit. The statement which appeared in both of the morning papers

"I have refrained from any expression upon this subject up to this time," said Senator Kearns, "but it appears to me I should give to the members of the Utah Legislature and others in the state directly interested such information as has come to me here, and which may not be known to them. I feel it in my line of duty as their representative in the United States senate.

"I have refrained from expressing any opinion as to what should or should not be done, as that has not been and is not now any part of my public duty. Almost immediately upon my return to the senate when it convened on the first Monday of last month. I was asked by senators and members of the lower house of Congress, by prominent members of President Roosevelt's administration'and influential Republicans not in public life, but interested in the welfure of the party at large and the material welfare of Utah, who would likely be chosen as the successor to Senator Rawlins. To each one I replied that I relied implicity upon the wisdom of the Republican members of the Utah Legislature, and had no doubt a capable and reliable man would be selected; that there was a large majority of able and conservative men in our Legislature, men who have the best interest of our State at heart, and that it was my purpose to take no part in any manner in the selection of Senator Rawlin's successor. I found the object of most of this inquiry was for the purpose of ascertaining whether such selection would be made, as would arouse strife within my own state or contention or feeling against the state from without,

"About the middle of last month I was called into consultation here by some distinguished Republicans, among themSenator Hanna of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee. Later the subject of the discussion of that onference was broached to me by President Roosevelt, and when I went to Salt Lake City to spend the holidays with my family I bore a message from President Roosevelt and Chairman Hanna to Mr. Reed Smoot. I would not at that time or at any other time disclosethe contents of that message, which I laid before Mr. Smoot, had it not been that I was requested to do so in this public manner by President Roosevelt this afternoon, in order that the Utah Legislature and the citizens of the state generally may be fully advised of the opinion of these gentlemen. The message was to the effect that there was no objection to Mr. Smoot personally, or his religious faith, but that the election of an apostle would arouse opposition, and inject an unfortunate question into national politics, and create unfavorable comment. It was stated that the members of the Mormon Church, being in the majority in the Legislature, would naturally desire, and were fully entitled, to select one of their choice, and it was argued that some one other than an apostle be chosen.

This afternoon President Roosevelt requested me to state, in the manner I 144 now stating it, that he very much hoped no apostle would be elected. He based his expression and interest on the firm belief that the selection of any spostle would arouse a bitter feeling and do irretrievable injury to the best

"President Roosevelt said: 'I am deeply interested in the future of Utah, in its material upbuilding, as well as the future interests of the Republican party. The election to the United States senate of an apostle would work great harm to the state. It would be very unwise. It would certainly lead to contentions and strife and bitterness here, if not in Utah, and would unquestionably be a misfortune to those who are interested in all that goes to make the State of Utah prosperous and great. I have every confidence in the wisdom of the majority members of the Utah Legislature, and I feel sure if they understand the gravity of the situation as it appears to me, and as I have heard it expressed by members of the senate, they will refrain from any action which will not result in good for the future of Utah and her people. I desire you to place me on record as kindly, but firmly, advising against the election of any apostle to a United States senatorship.'

"Having said this much, and having as faithfully as possible conveyed to the Legislature and the people of Utah the position of President Roosevelt and others here upon this subject," said Senator Kearns in conclusion, "I feel that I have done all I have been requested to do by those in responsible position here in Washington and who have wished me to make known the situation, but I might add that Hon. C. E. Loose of Provo, recently elected to the senate of the Utah Legislature and one of Mr. Smoot's most intimate personal friends, had an interview with President Roosevelt on last Monday afternoon, and the president today stated to me that he has made this same statement to Mr. Loose with a view of having it conveyed to the caucus of the Republican members of the Utah Legislature."

SMOOT WILL NOT BACK DOWN AT THIS TIME.

While Mr. Smoot was evidently deeply concerned over the matter today, he did not care to discuss it in detail. In fact, he politely and firmly stated that he would not do so. It was understood that he was waiting for the return from Washington of Hon. C. E. Loose of Provo, who has been in Washington for some time, and who was expected home last night but who did not arrive on account of being on a delayed train. However, Mr. Smoot said this much, and the words were spoken with quiet and telling emphasis:

"ALL I HAVE TO SAY IS THAT I WILL BE AND AM A CANDI-DATE FOR THE UNITED STATES SENATE."

PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY MAKES DENIAL

(Special to the "News.")

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9 .- Reports are being circulated here that the president has written a letter to certain leading Republicans against the election of Reed Smoot as senator from Utah. Mr. Cortelyou, the president's secretary, denied that the president had written such a letter. As certain persons from Salt Lake are now in the city, it is stated that the report originated with them.

HONORS FOR JUDGE HEYBURN.

Able Idaho Jurist Agreed Upon by Republican Caucus For United States Senator - Is Popular and in Every Way Qualified for the Place.

Judge W. B. Heyburn last night at | except perhaps in politics, in which he Boise, received the Republican caucus nomination for United States senator for the state of Idaho, by a vote of 28 to 22, which insures his election on Monday next, for six years to succeed the present outgoing senator, Henry Heitfield. Welden Brinton Heybourne was born May 23, 1852. His father's ancestors came from Northumberland, England and settled in Delaware county, Penn., in 1760. and his mother's came to this country with William Penn. He received an academic education and was admitted to the Pennsylvania bar nearly 30 years ago and became a Philadelphia lawyer, Since then he has been admitted to the bar in the states of Colorado, Washington and Idaho and to all the federal courts and to the United States Supreme court.

For more than 25 years Judge Heyburn has been essentially a western man from the far west. After a short period spent in Wyoming he became one of the ploneers of Leadville, during its wild and woolly days, when he first achieved distinction at the bar. From there he came with the rush to the Coeur d'Alene excitement in 1883, and settled in Shoshone county, Idaho, where he has resided ever since. He has won by close study and persistent effort the distinction of being the leading mining lawyer, not only of the state of Idaho, but the whole northwest, and it is a question whether he has very many superiors in that specialty anywhere.

While he is a lawyer in love with his profession and has won a large and lucrative practice, he has not been neglectful of other things. He is an ex-ceptionally well read man and his read-ing has extended over a wide range of literature. Reading is his favorite relaxation and being possessed of a has always been a staunch, unswerv-

The whole west will have reason to be proud of him before the ex-piration of his term. Personally, he ich wins for him lasting friends wherever he goes. There will be no fliculty in approaching him when he dons the senatorial toga. He was a member of the constitution al convention when Idaho was admitted statehood and has been a delegate to every Republican national convenon, except in 1896, ever since he has times been on the presidential ectoral ticket.
